Hey you!

We are writing to you to apply for the position of your new employer. What's that? You read that right, we're looking exactly for you, and that's why we want to present ourselves in the best light. Dotbite is a collective of passionate software engineers, creative designers, [], digital natives, innovative thinkers, and inspiring product owners at home in the digital world. We've left space for you!

Dotbite is young, both in terms of the company's existence and the average age of our team. However, this does not mean that we lack experience or professionalism. On the contrary, well-known clients such as Lead Horizon and Morawa Digital place their trust in our skills. We specialize in scalable solutions for big data (e.g., up to a hundred thousand coronavirus tests daily in our Lead Horizon Web App), fast infrastructures, and a user experience made for humans.

Our young age is also one of our major strengths. We use state-of-the-art technologies, always want to learn something new, and think innovatively because the world of tomorrow can't come soon enough. Freedom and self-determination are the hallmarks of our work culture. For us, agile working is not a synonym for chaos but our philosophy. Short communication channels, our team spirit, and an open atmosphere allow us to work efficiently and with purpose. And because we believe that you best learn to swim by getting thrown in at the deep end, we hand over responsibility from day one: no lengthy onboarding presentations, but hands-on learning on the project.

The most important thing though: We have a lot of fun because we're hilarious. For all our dynamism and agility, we don't forget that you should have a good time and something to laugh about at your job. That's why a positive work-life balance and a culture of mutual help are so important to us. Benefits such as free drinks and snacks or an allowance for sports are of course also available. Flexible working hours and home office are standard anyways.

Enough convincing; now it's your turn. If you like what you've just read about us, get in touch. We look forward to introducing ourselves in person at the interview.

See you soon
